The rumor that the small pox exists among the Papago Indians at Blackwater is denied by people residing in that quarter, and they ought to know.

An impromptu hop was given on the big bridge crossing the Gila river, Wednesday night, and a select party enjoyed themselves heartily.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Woods were in town last Saturday, attending to matters before the Judge of the Probate court.

She was a good wife and an amiable mother and her untimely death was an irreparable loss to all who knew her husband and her orphaned children.

Forty-four boys and girls were from the Pima agency about two weeks ago and placed in the Industrial school at Albuquerque, New Mexico. The success attending the method of civilization gives strong reasons that the new generation of these Indians will assume a higher plane of civilization than their progenitors, and it is gratifying to know that they fully appreciate the great advantages to be derived from a good education in the English language.

In reporting the application of Mrs. M. E. Bailey of this place, for a divorce from her husband, Mr. S. M. Bailey, the San Francisco newspapers, among other allegations of the complaint, quoted the complexity of Mr. Wm. E. Guild in the alleged conspiracy to force that lady into an unwelcome marriage from which she now seeks release by the courts. Several Territorial papers have quoted these reports, and it is but simple justice to a worthy citizen to state that the facts do not bear out the allegation. Even the testimony of the fair plaintiff given before a referee appointed by the District Court of Pinal county in a like suit, that was subsequently withdrawn, exonerates Mr. Guild from any connection in the matter.

ARIZONA NEWS.

The telegraph line between Tucson and the Gila river is reported to have been purchased by the Western Union.

Generally speaking it is in a dilapidated condition the Indians having taken good deal of the wire to fence fields and corrals with.

It is reported that old Eskin-in-zin when he went to Washington about two months since told the great father that "white men in Arizona no good, keep all the time steal. Him steal horses, him steal everything from poor Indian."

Cleveland, it is said, shed tears of sympathy and promised old skin $10,000 to make good his losses.

"Speaking first of the mining outlook this spring," said Mr. Conlee, "I may safely say that it is easier to procure money for investment in mining properties than it has been at any period for 20 years past. Only a year ago it would have been a sheer waste of time and money to attempt to place a property in Chicago. I have four orders now in my pocket for gold mines, that came to me unsolicited while in the city the early part of the week. Last year at this time an expert representing the best mining prospect in the West would have been hanging at his heels to get to sell in Kansas City. Look at the score of mines owned at this point today. The truth is that capital is to-day seeking investment in good mines, and with square dealing, there is no reason why the interest should not increase regularly this spring."

"After such an extended experience in mining throughout all parts of the West, why was it that you selected Arizona as the theater of operations?"

"Readily answered. I consider Arizona, and especially the Casa Grande district, the most promising field in all the metal producing states or territories. It's true the ores are low grade and the country is almost a desert in many places, but these disadvantages are offset by the immense masses of free surface ore that are found at the surface of the ground and veins that average 200 feet in width. When we bear in mind that this ore will run at least $10 to the ton, is as easily accessible as cutting a passage for a railroad through a hill, and is mined and milled at a marvelously low figure, you may judge that there is money made in handling it."

"The Casa Grande district has not yet been thoroughly prospected but pay ore has been found along a line twenty miles in length. I recently located a claim 8,000 feet from the Monarch, which is upon the same ledge. I named it the 'Kansas City,' and the great faith in its future. The Silver King and Vekol are the most prominent mines of the district. They have been paying dividends for years. The Silver Reef, Jack Rabbit, Wall Street, Orizaba, Reward and Queen of Sheba group are all being worked successfully. The Monarch, Leona and Maldonado are owned in Kansas City, are all first-class properties. The Monarch has a tunnel 200 feet long and a cross cut of 80 feet at the hundred foot level. We are trying at the 200 foot level to find the walls of the mine. The Monarch is like the Home mine in character and in magnitude of ore bodies is fully equal to that great mine. A twenty stamp mill has been ordered and we will push the work as fast as possible. The ores here the surface are free milling, but as the depth increases sulphides and ores containing pyrites of iron make their appearance and call for the use of the smelter. As the Southern Pacific road runs directly through the district there is no difficulty in procuring transportation to smelters. Some of the ores are sent to Kansas City for treatment."

"The Homestead mine, which Mr. Conlee assisted in opening years ago, was fully described by him in the conversation that followed. Since 1878 it has been paying at the rate of $5,000 per day. The ore is low grade, free milling, averaging $4.50 per ton. The cost of mining and milling was stated to be $1.50 per ton. Mr. Conlee is of the opinion that the Monarch will prove fully equal to the Homestead and will be one of the great producers of our country."

The new town of Peoria, twelve miles from Phoenix and connected with it by Grand avenue, 100 feet wide and as straight as an arrow, is to be "boom-ed."

The corner stone of Trinity church was laid with appropriate ceremonies at Phoenix, last Sunday. It will be built of brick and brown stone, and will cost complete, with the pews and interior furniture, $5,100, or a total cost of $7,000.

Dr. F. A. Oederich, of Tucson, is carving in wood a handsome statue of the old San Xavier church that will be a marvel of beauty when completed. He has already been engaged for three months during his leisure hours upon it.

About five or six years ago John Spring placed half a dozen small carp in Wm. E. Bailey's lake at Tucson, and they have multiplied so rapidly that 700 pounds of carp are sold every week in that city at 15 cents per pound.

Judge W. H. Barnes and wife have gone to Jacksonville, Illinois, to visit their former home. Judge Barnes will sell his eastern property this summer and invest the proceeds in Arizona property.

Dr. J. J. Alcorn has arrived at Kingman, by his own team, from Utah in an insane condition. He is dangerous and requires the constant attendance of two able bodied watchers.

U. S. Marshal W. K. Meade has gone to St. Louis to attend the Democratic National Convention.

The body of Jacques Olier was found on a bar in Salt river, six miles below Phoenix, a few days ago. He had attempted to ford the river and was drowned.

Picket Post Lodge No. 9, A. O. U. W., of Pinal, elected the following officers for the ensuing term ending December 31st, 1888, at their last regular meeting:

The Casa Grande District.

(Kansas City Record.)

Mr. J. A. Conlee, who is widely known throughout the West as a successful mine superintendent, passed through the city this week on his return from Chicago, where he placed a valuable mining property. The mine in question is called the El Pamo and is located near Sonora, Mexico. The price paid was $200,000, a large amount, but not too much if it stands in question concerning the richness of the mine are true.

Mr. Conlee is superintendent of the Monarch group of mines, owned by Messrs. Stein, Whiteside, Nesbitt and White of this city. This group is situated in the Casa Grande district, Arizona, and as reports of the good qualities of the Monarch have been floating around for some time, a Record man sought Mr. Conlee with a view of learning the exact state of the mine and gaining information on the mining capital in general.

"Speaking first of the mining outlook this spring," said Mr. Conlee, "I may safely say that it is easier to procure money for investment in mining properties than it has been at any period for 20 years past. Only a year ago it would have been a sheer waste of time and money to attempt to place a property in Chicago.
